In the case of horses, the authors call for "a combination of control and eradication" and suggest that the "control" of the infection in the individual and the "eradication" of the disease in the population are the two main goals.

AFP says it's ready to thwart NPA offensive

By Amino Papa

THE ARMED Forces of the Philippines said yesterday it was ready to face the threat of increased attacks by the New People's Army after the Communist Party of the Philippines ordered its armed wing to step up offensives against military and police targets.

"The Armed Forces is capable of preventing the NPA from stepping up their attacks. We are talking the battle directly to them. We will not wait for any threats," said AFP Public Information Office chief Lt. Col. Danilo Inserra.

He added, "We are prepared and we have trained our people enough. We have sufficient armaments and training."

Inserra also said the military had scored significant successes against the communist rebels in recent weeks.

"If we are to look at the recent incidents... we have achieved a lot of tactical victories," he said.

In a statement the other day, CFF spokesperson Gregorio "Da Roper" Rosal said the NPA had been ordered to launch bigger and more frequent "tactical offensives" against government forces whenever the opportunity presented itself, "to accelerate the overthrow" of the government.

The United States and the European Union had branded the CFF and the NPA as terrorist organizations. This led to the cutting off of funds from agencies and the freezing of the latter's assets.

The terrorist tag was one of the reasons the peace talks between the government and the National Democratic Front, the umbrella organization of the CFF and NPA, were stalled. The NPA had deconstructed the content of the terrorist tag as a condition for the resumption of the negotiations.

President Manuel A. Aquino on Tuesday Mutual command and liaison agreements between agencies and the high justice rate for hunger and poverty in the Philippines.

"We cannot shut our eyes to the state of hunger and poverty. The immediate action on unemployment in the cities, and pockets of conflict in the countryside," she said in a written statement.

The conflict was highlighted by three clashes between guerrilla troops and communist rebels over the past week that left at least 10 people dead and several others wounded, as the 35-year-old insurgency appeared to be heating up, The Associated Press reported.

In the largest number of casualties, the army said eight NPA guerrillas were killed in an encounter Sunday outside Pateros town in Nueva Ecija.

The soldiers, who suffered no casualties, recovered an assault rifle, ammunition, cellular phones and loaded sacks believed to have been used as stretchers for wounded rebels, army spokesperson Lt. Col. Buenaventura Pascual said.

In the fighting Sunday, soldiers clashed with about 20 guerrillas in Cusi-patch Valley province, killing three rebels. Three other guerrillas were captured and soldiers recovered two rifles, two grenade launchers and Claymore mines. There were no troop casualties.

On Friday, guerrillas killed two policemen on their way to a market in Davao Oriental, east of Compostela Valley. On the same day soldiers and police captured three guerrillas in Pangasinan.

The previous day, two soldiers were killed in a fire-fight with guerrillas in Cagayan province, while one civilian was killed and four soldiers were wounded in another clash with rebels in Palawan.

A day earlier, a gun battle between the NPA and the military in Agaña, Pangasinan, left one guerrilla dead.

The smallest tactical setback by the guerrillas is one of Agaña's largest military installations and is considered the Philippines' most secure military threat.

Based on Monday's method of troop attacks.

He said a three-year plan approved by the CFF's central committee last year aimed to double the strength of each regional command in the provinces from 25 to 50 members through recruitment.

He didn't give exact figures of the guerrilla's current strength, but the military estimated they number 8,500 with 6,300 firearms after hitting a peak of about 25,000 rebels in the mid-1980s.

Megawati concedes defeat in Indonesian election

By AP Staff
 Jakarta, Indonesia (AP) — Megawati Sukarnoputro, leader of the Indonesian Democratic Party of Struggle (PDI Perjuangan), has conceded defeat in the presidential election, acknowledging that her party lost to the Golkar party.

Megawati, 51, was the first woman to be elected president of Indonesia. She had been campaigning for a second term, but her party's support was significantly weakened by a series of corruption scandals involving her government.

In the runoff election, Megawati's PDI Perjuangan lost to the Golkar party, which was led by Abdurrahman Wahid. Wahid, a prominent Islamic scholar and leader of the United Development Party (PPP), was elected president.

Megawati's concession marks the end of her presidency, which lasted from 1996 to 2001. She will be succeeded by Wahid, who will take office on October 20, 2001.

The election results reflect a significant shift in the political landscape of Indonesia. The Golkar party, which has been a dominant force in Indonesian politics for decades, has regained its position as the leading party.

The election also highlights the growing influence of Islamic parties in Indonesian politics. Wahid's victory, as a leader of the PPP, signals a move towards a more Islamic-oriented government.

 Stockholm, Sweden (AP) — Two American scientists have won the Nobel Prize in Medicine for their discovery of the structure of the DNA double helix.

The scientists, James Watson and Francis Crick, were awarded the prize for their work on the structure of the DNA molecule, which is the genetic material of all living organisms.

Watson and Crick's discovery, made in 1953, revolutionized the field of genetics and opened the door to modern molecular biology. Their work showed that DNA is a double helix, with two strands twisted around each other and connected by base pairs.

The Nobel Prize in Medicine is one of the most prestigious awards in the world. It is awarded annually to scientists who have made significant contributions to the field of medicine.

Watson and Crick's discovery was a major breakthrough in the understanding of the genetic code. It has led to a better understanding of how genes are passed on and how they control the development and function of an organism.

The discovery of the DNA double helix has also had a profound impact on the development of modern medicine. It has led to the development of new diagnostic tests and treatments for a wide range of diseases.

Watson and Crick's work is a testament to the power of scientific discovery. It shows that through careful observation and experimentation, we can uncover the secrets of the natural world.

Figure 1 displays a sequence of 16 grayscale images arranged in a 4x4 grid, illustrating the degradation of a handwritten digit '4'. The images are labeled with numbers 1 through 16. The degradation is caused by a combination of salt-and-pepper noise and a 2D Gaussian blur kernel. The images show increasing levels of noise and blurring as the number increases.

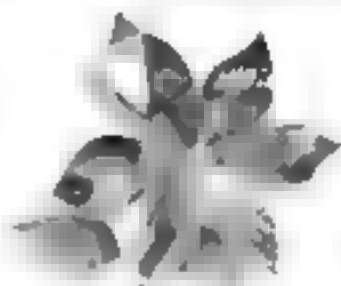

Figure 1 consists of four maps arranged in a 2x2 grid, each showing the spatial distribution of a different species of the genus Echinops. The maps are labeled as follows:

- Top-left: E. setiger
- Top-right: E. alpinus
- Bottom-left: E. sibiricus

 Each map displays a geographical area with various symbols (dots, lines, and shaded regions) indicating the distribution of the respective species. The maps are oriented with North at the top.

It is a common mistake to think that the only way to avoid the problems of the first two methods is to use a third method, the method of least squares. This method is also based on the assumption that the data are normally distributed, and it is also subject to the same problems as the first two methods. The method of least squares is only a special case of the method of maximum likelihood, and it is only valid when the data are normally distributed.
